Parenting or child rearing is the process of promoting and supporting the physical, emotional, social, and intellectual development of a child from infancy to adulthood. Parenting refers to the intricacies of raising a child and not exclusively to the biological relationship. The most common caretaker in parenting is the biological parent(s) of the child in question, although others may be an ...

The particular focus of How Children Succeed was the role that a group of factors often referred to as noncognitive or "soft skills" qualities like perseverance, conscientiousness, self-control, and optimism play in the challenges poor children face and the strategies that might help them succeed. These qualities, which are also sometimes called character strengths, have in recent ...

It was once commonly thought that infants lack the ability to form complex ideas. For much of this century, most psychologists accepted the traditional thesis that a newborn's mind is a blank slate (tabula rasa) on which the record of experience is gradually impressed. It was further thought that language is an obvious prerequisite for abstract thought and that, in its absence, a baby could ...

Circle of Competence. Charlie Munger and Warren Buffett know what they're good at, and what they're bad at. (He explains in Poor Charlie's Almanack why Berkshire Hathaway doesn't invest in technology companies.) Don't get overconfident and subject to the Twaddle tendency where you think you know a lot more than you do - this can cause terrible mistakes.
